Area may have to wait until winter for good drenching

By DAVID LELAND

IT'S NEVER too early to begin thinking about next winter. That's the next chance the area has for a good drenching from rains that have, for some reason, abandoned the peninsula for the past four years.

In other words, forget this year's pitiful rainfall, which has left the peninsula with less than 13 inches of precipitation — about 5 inches less than normal.

Normal for the period of July 1 through June 30 is 18.64 inches, with the median amount for that period being 16.55 inches.

Couple below-average rainfall with increased population growth and building, and an obvious problem surfaces.

"Less-than-normal rainfall gets more serious each year because we get more people," says Professor Robert Renard, chairman of the department of meteorology at the Naval Postgraduate School. "Below-normal rainfall in 1952 (14.16 inches) was not a big concern."

But that's another story altogether.

For almost 40 years, Renard, who also serves as a volunteer weather observer for the National Weather Service, has been keeping copious records of the wet stuff in Monterey County, specifically the area near Carmel Hill.

Moreover, he has gathered data from as far back as 1850 looking for trends and searching for a norm.

While some fear that this century has been somewhat of an anomaly, with true peninsula weather being more arid, Renard disagrees.

Scanning back almost 150 years, Renard sees a pattern that remains somewhat constant: the peninsula always experiences several years of above-normal rainfall and several years showing sparse amounts.

"This ('86-'90) is not dramatically different," says Renard, who monitors air and cloud movement via satellite from worldwide within his Monterey headquarters. "Short-term variations on the climate are fairly common."

Indeed, upon observing trends going back into the past century, there appears to be no steadfast rule for rainfall amounts.

In 1899 there were only 6 inches of rain; in 1920, 8 inches; the largest amount occurred in 1982, when there were 40 inches of precipitation.

During that 150-year period there has never been a five-year drought.

"Statistically, it is not expected that we would have another drought next year," says Renard, referring to the coming winter.

During the past 40 years, there have been three, three-year droughts and two four-year dry spells — the current drought and the period between the years of 1974-78.

OBSERVING WEATHER has become an increasingly exact science over the past 40 years, says Renard, who adds that, in the 1950s, scientists had trouble even predicting the correct temperature.

But long-range forecasting (more than 36 hours in advance), is still a hit-and-miss operation — thanks to Mother Nature.

Take, for example, an El Nino that appears to be developing in the tropical central Pacific Ocean.

El Nino, which means "the child" in Spanish, is the name given to dramatic atmospheric and oceanic changes that can occur in winter. When an El Nino develops, the tradewinds at the equator relax, causing the ocean current to weaken and warmer water to remain at the surface, which, in turn results in large-scale atmospheric changes.

"El Nino has been associated with above and below normal rainfall in the area," says Renard, adding that El Ninos are classified as strong, medium and weak, depending on how much the ocean temperature varies (usually between 2 degrees and 5 degrees Fahrenheit).

Conversely, Renard would not blame this year's drought on a La Nina, a condition which for the last six months caused below-normal water temperatures in the eastern Pacific, south of the equator.

While most associate El Nino with the devastating floods that occurred in 1982, the last El Nino took place in 1986-87, the first year of the peninsula's four-year drought.

Renard says it is fairly easy to predict that the Gulf states will experience above-average rains during an El Nino, but California has more climatic variables.

In fact, if a high-pressure dome remains in place, rains generating from an El Nino would have just as much trouble getting into the area next year as have the wet Alaskan storms that have been thwarted over the past four years.

"If a high ridge of pressure dominates the West Coast, the El Nino won't do us much good," explains Renard, adding that low pressure means inclement weather.

The stubborn high pressure system (known as the Pacific High), normally moves far to the south during the winter months. During the past four winters the dome has stayed off the Central Coast and effectively blocked incoming storms.

'Statistically, it is not expected that we would have another drought next year.'

— Robert Renard

About the only way to batter the high pressure down is from high-level winds, known as the jet stream, which lead storm fronts into the area, says Renard.

As a rule, during the past several years, the jet stream has flowed far to the north, leading disturbances into British Columbia and the Pacific Northwest.

December was totally dry, as was the period from mid-March to mid-April. At the end of April it becomes winter in the Southern Hemisphere, thus making the possibility of any rainfall in the area slim.

While Renard says that scientists still are unclear why the high pressure is in place over the West Coast, it probably stems from some seemingly unrelated weather pattern elsewhere in the world, possibly in Europe or Asia.

"There are only between four and eight ridges of pressure over the earth," he says. "When one undergoes a change, they all do."

In other words, the only completely reliable method of forecasting next winter's weather is to wait and see what Mother Nature has planned.

Drought has dramatic effect on area wildlife as well as people

By NANCY HILLS

WITH THE rainy season over, rainfall 5 inches below "normal" and runoff from the watershed about 87 percent short of average, the Monterey Peninsula is going into the fourth year of drought and human beings are not the only ones to feel its effect.

"We're just in God's hands," said Carmel Valley farmer Russell Wolter. "We had to lower our pump 40 feet, we've never had to do that before."

'We're just in God's hands. We had to lower our pump 40 feet, we've never had to do that before.'

— Russell Wolter
— Valley farmer

His pump is at 85 feet, as far down as it will go, Wolters said, and if the water level drops below that, there will be no water to irrigate his crops.

Water-loving trees and bushes, such as willows and cottonwoods, have run out of water in the lower valley and have survived that last two years primarily because the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District has strung about 75 miles of drip irrigation lines along the river banks. Another 20 miles of lines is scheduled for the stretch of dry river between Via Mallorca and Highway 1.

"Without the irrigation, there would have been thousands of trees dead. Other areas are pretty well stressed. If we hadn't done (the irrigation), there would have been very few trees alive along the river and what had survived would probably have died this year," explained Graham Matthews, water district associate hydrologist.

As it is, he said, hundreds of trees are dead, including many of the cottonwoods behind The Crossroads shopping center and near Highway 1. The water district has commissioned a specialist to conduct a study of the effectiveness of the irrigation system and the impact of the drought.

It is the pumping by California-American Water Co.'s big wells in the lower valley to supply urban demand that has caused the aquifer to drop below the root lines of the trees, which is normally about 20 feet for mature growth.

Beyond the narrows — or Scarlet Road — the vegetation has survived because the pumping has been kept to equal the inflow, therefore the aquifer has not dropped as far as it has in the lower valley.

However, Mathews said, Cal-Am has put its flashboards in place on the dam and runoff into the river has stopped.

"CERTAINLY, THERE has been impacts on the fishery and impacts on the vegetation," said water board chairman Dick Heuer. "We don't actually know the true severity until the rains come and the banks where the dead growth is is washed away."

Heuer pointed out that after the 1976-1977 drought, there was $10 million worth of damage due to property loss when the river

The council three

THE CARMEL City Council conducted a special meeting on April 17 at the Torres Street property to swear in Mayor Jean Grace and councilmembers Bob Fischer and Barbara Brooks, who were elected April 10. In congratulating the winners, Grace also congratulated those who did not win for "hanging in there and being so willing to serve the city." Fischer and Brooks will serve four-year terms, Grace, a two-year term. Grace said that a "new generation of voters have spoken." (Chuck Scardina photo.)

Enjoys Carmel

Dear Editor:

I am a 13-year-old who enjoys reading what goes on in the beautiful village of Carmel. My grandmother sends me the Pine Cone. I sincerely enjoy reading all about the activities that happen in Carmel. Each year I visit California, on my trip there I visit my grandmother and grandfather that live in the Carmel Valley. I hope to continue to receive the news about my favorite place, Carmel, Ca.

Successful campaign

Dear Editor:

In politics, "Few people are successful unless a lot of other people want them to be" (Charles Brower). My sincere thanks to each and everyone of you who worked and contributed to the success of my campaign.

I appreciate those who voted for me and I respect those who didn't and look forward to working with all of you for the good of Carmel

Let's make a deal

Dear Editor:

The people of Carmel have spoken clearly and wisely and have refused to let publisher Bill Brown and his guest editorialist and ghost writer, Howard Nieman, impose their will upon the majority of the citizens of Carmel. I shall not review the sleazy nature of their campaign which was designed to unseat Mayor Jean Grace and to defeat council candidate Barbara Brooks. The sleaze was there for all to see and read week after week. The major purpose of my writing now is to initiate a process which will guarantee the responsibility that goes hand in hand with freedom of the press. Accordingly, I am making an offer to purchase the Pine Cone — the price to be determined by negotiation. The purchase will be financed by junk bonds managed by Howard Nieman. Howard is uniquely qualified to carry this out. He has been spreading political junk for weeks and his political statements are comparable in worth to the junk bond market. Can we make a deal?

Campaign tactics

Dear Editor:

The April 10th election is now history and it is time for Carmel citizens to reflect on the campaign tactics that surely contributed to its outcome.

Since those who do not learn from history are condemned to repeat it, future campaign strategists need to beware of using the tactics listed below, which proved unproductive and, likely, counterproductive:

- Efforts, in the last days, to mislead the voters.
- Setting up "straw man" issues such as the "non-issue" of annexation, intended to divert attention away from real issues.
- Extensive newspaper editorial coverage focusing on a candidate's endorsing organization(s) instead of on that person's publicly recorded positions.

Carmel voters demonstrated, by the sizable margins of victory they gave to the winning candidates, that the following campaign tactics provide fair, common sense, guidelines:

- Value, not fear, the existence of citizen groups who organize forums to identify and debate community problems, and recommend possible solutions. This process gives participants the chance to have something to say about issues that affect them. Continuing grassroots input is essential to the success of any service-oriented local government.
- Accent the positive! Keep the issues in focus to voters will be able to intelligently consider them and vote their preferences. Spend campaign time and money attacking problems, not personalities.
- Between elections, attend local government functions to gain first-hand knowledge of your elected officials' public record. Let them know your concerns about any particular issue. When public officials realize that at election time, voters will see a review of their term's day-to-day positions on issues, we can expect more facts and less fiction in future campaigns.

Know Nothingism

Dear Editor:

Before the mayoral race fades from memory, let there be a whisper of regret at the Know Nothing aspect of one campaign. And let there be the fervent hope that Know Nothingism, having failed as a political ploy in this election, will not be repeated.

The Know Nothings, you will recall, were Americans in the 1840s who were arrogantly proud of being native born. So convinced were they of their superiority that they wanted to slam shut the door on further immigrants, particularly the Irish Catholics.

One Carmel campaign adopted this exclusionary policy of "us," the true residents of the city, against "them," the neighbors just over the city line. The outlanders, it was decreed, could not be members of "our" (copycat), residents association, although, shamefully, they could be of the Carmel Residents Association. Furthermore, annexation was a dirty word, and could only sully the Know Nothings' pristine city.

Never mind that residents "beyond the pale" are affected directly by what happens politically and civically in the city (as was the case four years ago, and what it did for crowds and traffic throughout the area). Never mind that these residents spend almost as much time in the city as do the city's residents. They patronize the shops and restaurants. They visit Sunset Center and the library. They go to the houses of friends. They have the welfare of Carmel in their hearts as much as do their friends, the residents of the city.

Never mind, too, that annexation, legally, must start with the application of areas outside the city. And no such applications have been submitted. If the unwashed hordes are not pressing at the gates of the city, what has a Know Nothing to fear?

The truth is that these Know Nothing ploys, unworthy of the candidate and her advisors, and probably not truly believed in by even them, were straw men. They were straw men set up to frighten Carmel voters. And, happily, Carmel voters are too smart to flinch at straw men.

Politically astute

Dear Editor:

Someone has called the city of Carmel the most politically active square mile in the United States. That Carmel is also politically astute was shown by the resounding vote of confidence given to Barbara Brooks in her campaign for a seat on the City Council.

Barbara is a person who rises above partisanship and considers issues on their merits, intelligently and fairly. She will give a hearing to all who wish to present their points of view. I believe that many of those who did not support her candidacy will come to approve the way she does her job on the Council.

Math lesson

Dear Editor:

I want to let R.E. Benton know that four plus two is six; not four.

In the Pine Cone he writes: "If the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway were two lanes in each direction and if the proposed widening of the existing highway were two lanes in each direction, how can the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway carry more traffic than the proposed widening of Highway 1?"

Answer: because you will still use two lanes on Highway 1. The traffic count projection has always said that what is needed is six lanes...four somewhere, and two somewhere. And that didn't turn out to be a wild guess. It has happened.

Work together

Dear Editor:

It is important for us as individuals, as a community, as a state, as a nation, and as a planet to learn how to work together to create a better world. As a species we can save this planet from a disaster that we have created. The toxic waste, pollution, energy, and global warming problems must be forced and resolved.

When we came to America we should have respected the land the way the native Americans respected it. They call our planet Mother Earth. She is our mother, our nurturer and our protector and how have we repayed her.

We have polluted her rivers, streams, oceans and air. We have slaughtered her wildlife, her forests, and each other. The native Americans, in their prophecies, saw this in their visions.

We call ourselves civilized and we called them brethren but it is civilized to rape the land? I think not. Now it is us — who must listen to the great spirit which the native Americans speak of in their religion.

Mother Earth is crying out for our help. Dare we not listen?

Please support Earth Day 1990 April 21 and 22 in our area.

Think about Earth

Dear Editor:

I've been keeping up on remarks made about the Hatton Canyon Freeway project, and it really saddens me to think how selfish they all have been. It's time we start thinking about something other than ourselves. It's time to think about the Earth.

Not only will the freeway invite more traffic, ruin a fragile ecosystem, and devastate a natural habitat, but it will also destroy miles upon miles of vegetation along its way. This is part of the vegetation our planet depends on for oxygen and ozone. An alarming rate of vegetation is cut down every day with no second thought to the fact that many places in the world already are limited to no more than 15 minutes in the sun for fear of skin disease from UV rays.

When is the madness going to stop? A better solution: walk, bike, carpool or ride the bus. Isn't it worth the time and effort to be able to breathe in the sun ten years from now?

Bird watching

Dear Editor:

Do you have any birds nesting in your yard? Have you seen any baby birds being fed as you go on your morning walk?

If so, perhaps you can help a group of volunteers who are identifying all the bird species that nest in Monterey County. They are in the third year of a five-year project at the end of which a book containing the results will be published.

In the Carmel area (Carmel-By-The-Sea, Hatton Fields, Carmel Point, Carmel Woods, Carmel Meadows, the high school area, Hatton Canyon, Carmel Knolls, Rio Vista and Carmel Views, plus Pebble Beach in the area of Huckleberry Hill and the Morse Botanical Reserve south to Stillwater Cove), they are most interested in confirming nesting of hawks, owls, hummingbirds, woodpeckers (other than Acorn Woodpeckers), swallows (other than Violet-green) and towhees, plus Band-tailed Pigeons, Plain Titmouse, Swainson's Thrush, Northern Mockingbird, White-crowned Sparrow, Northern Oriole, Purple Finch and Pine Siskin.

If you know of any of the above birds that are nest building, sitting on nests, or feeding baby birds, please contact Brian Weed, PO Box 1923, Carmel, CA 93921, and include your name and phone number, the bird species and location of your sighting.

PLEASE DO NOT DISTURB OR APPROACH THE NEST. The parent birds will often abandon the nest or young when disturbed. Any help you can provide will be much appreciated.

Trust me

Dear Editor:

Can you remember back when the City of Carmel was talking about purchasing the Mission Ranch but instead Mayor Eastwood acquired it for himself — saying he would preserve it as is — make NO changes?

Remember the Pine Cone guest editorial on March 10, 1988 when he said he wanted Mission Ranch to "stay as it is — a tranquil open space, a pleasant place...No development of the Mission ranch is contemplated..."

Well, now he and developer Alan Williams are discussing their development plans with Mission Ranch neighbors — they propose to demolish all the charming cabins, replacing them with two-story double units, 24 feet high, which will obstruct the view of the Mission and Point Lobos. In addition, one unit will be built on the wetlands.

"Trust me," he said...it's best to get such promises in writing.

Carmel jumps on the Earth Day bandwagon

LOCAL, STATE and federal agencies have jumped on the Earth Day bandwagon, with a wide range of activities planned for the Monterey Peninsula come Sunday, April 22.

Celebrating its 20th anniversary, Earth Day is a worldwide party aimed at raising environmental consciousness on issues such as toxic waste dumps, growing mountains of garbage, shrinking tropical rainforests and depleted levels of ozone in the atmosphere.

Internationally, some 100 million people are expected to participate in this year's activities, according to Denis Hayes, who helped organize the first Earth Day and is chairman and CEO of Stanford-based Earth Day 1990.

Examples of worldwide involvement include a tree-planting campaign in Kenya, a clean-up of the Vistula River by Poland's Ecological Club and an Italian "Green Train," equipped with laboratory gear to test pollution levels in 21 cities.

In the United States, Earth Day 1990 has planned and coordinated activities with organizations that include children and youth groups, schools, colleges and universities, socially responsible investors, consumers, businesses, farmers, cities and counties.

Here is a sampling of local activities planned to celebrate Earth Day:

• Carmel. The city plans a leisurely community walk beginning at 9 a.m. at the Torres Street property and continuing through Mission Trail Park, the Hodges property and concluding at Scenic Road and Eighth Avenue.

For those wishing to join the walk in progress, the group will be at the Hodges property at about 10 a.m. and will meet at the beach at around 11 a.m.

• Monterey County. County jurisdictions and peninsula towns have an active weekend planned to celebrate Earth Day.

On Friday, April 20, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at Monterey Peninsula College Amphitheater information tables will be set up, with speakers and discussions taking place throughout the day.

On Saturday, April 21, three events are scheduled, which include:

"Vision 2000," a conference for people to learn about ways they can make a difference with the environment at a community level will take place between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall.

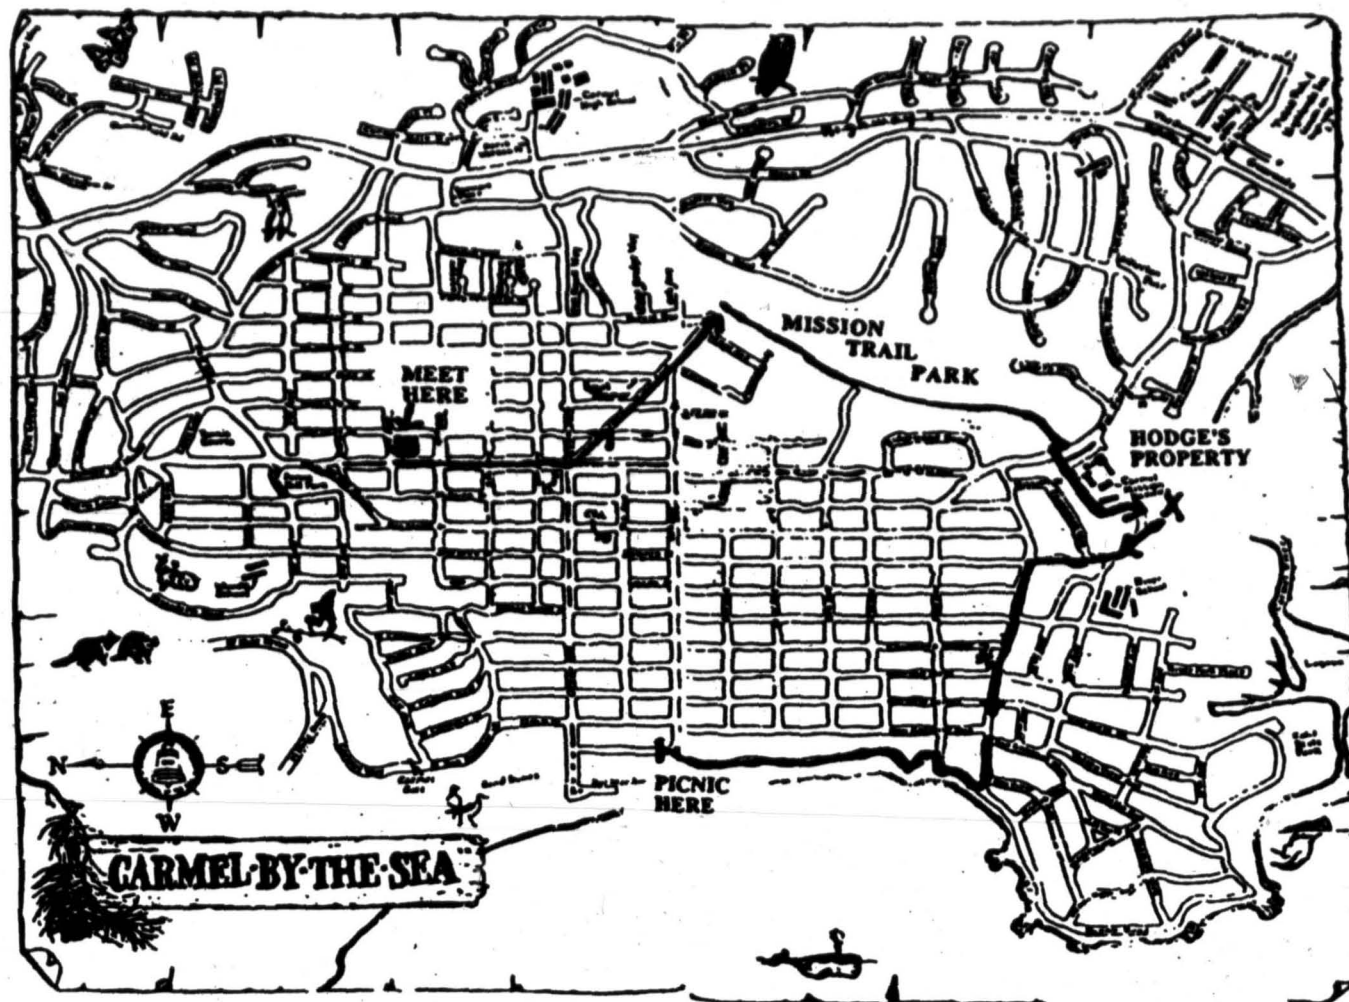

"Day of Alternatives" will take place between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Alvarado Street in downtown Monterey. Music, art, dramatic skits, exhibits, speakers and informational displays highlight this old-fashioned eco-fair.

The Cannery Row "Poppy Festival" will take place between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. A farmer's market with local produce, area flower growers, wildflower seed giveaway, Hinton the Clown and a John Steinbeck presentation will highlight these activities.

On Sunday, April 22, there will be a pre-dawn ceremony at Lover's Point in Pacific Grove, where the Dance of Life and greeting of a new era will be led by ChoQosh and Auh-Ho-Oh. It is important to arrive before sunrise.

Later, between 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. volunteers will meet at Garland Park in Carmel Valley to clean and assist the maintenance of the trail. At 1 p.m. there will be an interpretive hike and tour of Rancho Don Juan.

Between 10 a.m. and noon, Asilomar State Beach volunteers will join the state Parks Department in a planting of native dune plants. Bring garden gloves, trowel and lunch.

BEGINNING AT 9 a.m. Sunday, April 22, the city of Carmel will sponsor a stroll through town, which will feature a tree planting at the Hodges property and picnic lunch at Carmel Beach.

Later at Asilomar State Beach, state officials will be giving away Monterey pine seedlings to planted on private land.

Officials fear that canopy of pines that the area is noted for may disappear, and will talk about the delicate interplay of the forest and dune environment during the giveaway.

• Statewide The state Coastal Commission is staging beach cleanups on Saturday, April 21.

The cleanups, sponsored by the Coastal Commission's Adopt-A-Beach program in honor of Earth Day, will give people an opportunity to promote recycling, litter abatement and conservation awareness while doing a good deed for the coast.

Landmark Land Co. deal could open way for more units

By DAVID LELAND

A $967 million land deal between Carmel-based Landmark Land Co. and a Southern California developer could pave the way for as many as 100 new units at Carmel Valley Ranch Resort.

The 1,700-acre, 100-room resort, which encompasses about $497 million of the total deal, has its own specific plan and lies outside of the purview of the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

'The Landmark team will operate autonomously and separately from our other development operations.'

— Barry G. Hon

While the resort is almost built-out, with plans for 89 single-family units having been approved, a reserve area near Robinson Canyon Road could be the site for 100 units, according to Lynne Mounday, county planner.

The deal, which helps Landmark's Louisiana-based savings and loan subsidiary, Oak Tree Savings Bank, satisfy new federal regulations, involves Barry G. Hon, a prominent Orange County real estate developer.

Hon's projects include such prestigious Palm Springs-area golf resorts as PGA West, La Quinta and Mission Hills.

Hon's office said he was unavailable for comment on his plans for the property.

Under the deal, Hon agreed to take on most of Landmark's employees as well as the real estate.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported in its April 17 edition that none of the 15 Landmark employees in Carmel would be displaced.

Landmark Chairman Gerald Barton was unavailable for comment at press time on either employee retention or rumors that Hon will sell individual properties to Japanese developers.

Carmel Valley Ranch Resort's specific plan was approved in 1976, the first such plan approved in Monterey County.

Under current standards, some of the building, such as homes now being built on 50-percent slopes above Carmel Valley Road, would not be allowed.

With that in mind, Mounday said any plans submitted for the reserve area would be "scrutinized very closely."

In addition to county review, an updated environmental impact report may be required, he said, adding that the specific plan would have to coincide with the master plan.

"More than likely the county will want to take a close look," Mounday said.

HON DEVELOPMENT has the right to purchase another $470 million of divisions and properties by the end of June 1991.

In both transactions, Hon has agreed to pay about 20 percent of the purchase price, or about $100 million at each closing, in cash, and Oak Tree will finance the remainder.

Landmark will realize $270 million in pre-tax profits before closing and other transaction costs this year, and another $200 million in pre-tax profits in 1991 if Hon exercises his option rights.

Hon will acquire the properties from Oak Tree Savings Bank, a subsidiary of Landmark, and from various affiliates of Oak Tree.

"The Landmark team will operate autonomously and separately from our other development operations," said Hon in a prepared statement. "We plan no changes in personnel or operations at our Rancho Palos Verdes or Foothill Ranch developments."

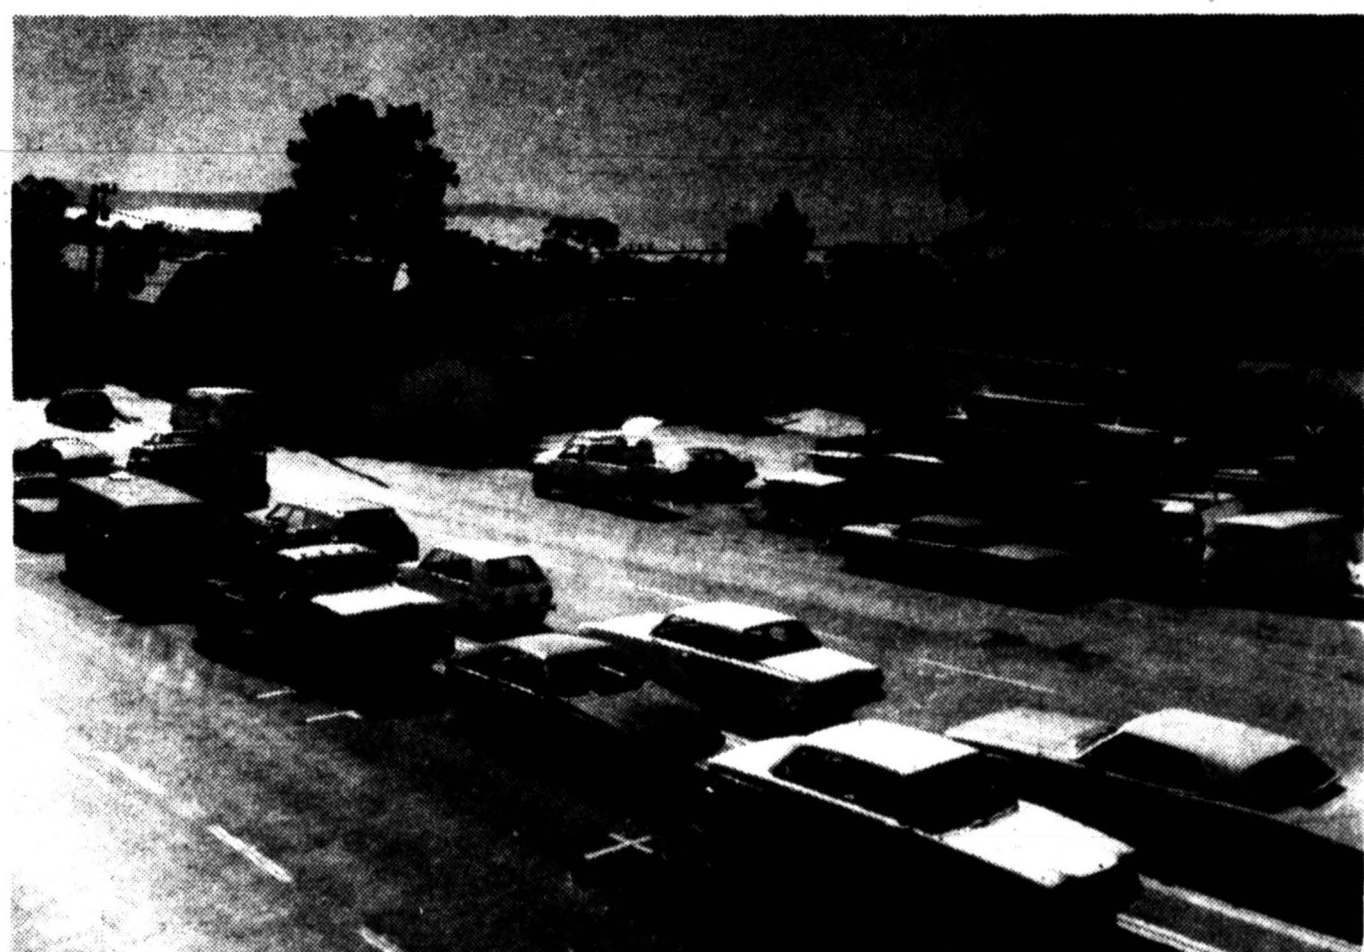

Hon's Palos Verdes Land Holdings, Inc., is the owner and developer of the planned Ritz Carlton Resort Hotel and golf course as well as custom homes in Rancho Palos Verdes in the South Bay area of Los Angeles County.

The Landmark team will develop and operate the proposed golf courses at the Rancho Palos Verde project, according to the prepared statement.

Additionally, Hon's Foothill Ranch Co. is the owner and developer of a 2,750-acre planned community in southeast Orange County. Hon also owns other Southern California real estate development projects, none of which will be affected by the Landmark acquisition.

Hon is a board member of the South Coast Medical Center, a founder of the Orange County Performing Arts Center and retired chairman of the board of Eldorado Bank.

Design review on condo project set for April 25

THE CARMEL Planning Commission will conduct a design review on a 10-condominium, 10-apartment complex on the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues.

The commission will meet at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 25 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

According to the staff report, the commission reviewed the plans in January, and recommended changes, including:

- More open space in the public view.
- Breaks in the architectural style along the street frontage to prevent the project from appearing as a single large project.
- Provide variety in exterior materials and finishes.

The project has been redesigned so the condominiums reflect a Mediterranean influence and the apartments done in a cottage style.

Additional changes have been recommended by the design review committee.

If the commission agrees with the redesign, the project will return to the commission at a later date for design approval.

Home of two Carmel characters part of tour of historical homes

By NANCY HILLS

IN 1927 the first person to be arrested for chopping down a local tree without a permit and tried by the first jury in Carmel was one of those legendary Carmel artists.

George J. Seideneck was found guilty and charged $10 for his crime of chopping down a dead pine tree.

His fame however, however, is more deeply rooted in his art as is his wife's, Catherine Comstock Seideneck. They were an early Carmel couple that embodied the tradition of old Carmel as an artists' colony.

Their home, remodeled by owners Sheila and Phillip Costain, is one of the houses on Carmel Heritage's "The 80 Acres" walking tour this Sunday, April 22. (See Calendar or Yesterday and Today column in this issue for details of the tour.)

Though they added a second story, Sheila Costain explained that they "tried to keep the same proportions and feel of the early house," including keeping the low ceilings, redwood shingles on the ceiling and the added upstairs small.

The Seidenecks were an important force in the peninsula art community, helping to found the Carmel Art Association and becoming a focal point for the arts and crafts movement in Carmel Valley when they later built a home on 34 acres they owned there.

Their paintings now command world-class prices in the art world.

Both were trained at the Chicago Art Institute, though they did not meet until George Seideneck visited Carmel in 1918 and met summer resident Catherine Comstock, who sold jewelry and leather goods in town.

After their marriage in 1920, they had M.J. Murphy build them a small bungalow, at that time facing the ocean and Junipero Avenue.

Another future builder and Catherine's brother, Hugh Comstock, would visit the small home. Comstock would later marry local lass, Mayotta Brown, who was a ragdoll maker at the time, and first developed the Hansel and Gretel-style building he is known for to display her wares.

Both the Seidnecks traveled extensively during their marriage and Catherine, who was known for her tiles and leather work, later in life became more interested in painting. She developed an oil wash style that remains her trademark.

Her husband was better known than Catherine and painted in oils. He was known for his portraiture and his photography.

In 1930, the Seidnecks built a home in Carmel Valley and it is not known who bought the cottage. It was later purchased in the 1940s by V.S. Velisaratos.

The Costains bought the home from Velisaratos in 1971 and have spent much of the past 10 years remodeling and restoring the home.

"We have 'established ties' with every bat and board, every cedar shingle and redwood slab, every stone doorstep and casement window (although with 203 windowpanes in the original house and 178 in our addition), the latter involves more of a love-hate relationship," Costain wrote in a paper for a college class.

"When you do an old house you end up with so much more than you can possibly have with a new house. The whole is greater than the parts," she said. "There is a certain thing you couldn't get built again. Also, anything new wouldn't have the texture of the old and there is a satisfaction knowing that you've saved something especially worth saving."

While Costain said she might have had more work done by professionals, she said that "people without a huge amount of experience" can tackle an old house as long as they get professional advice.

THE HOUSE built by artists George and Catherine Seideneck in the early 1920s and remodeled by Sheila and Phillip Costain. The second story is an addition. The house, on

The park district will not open a new bike trail to facilitate access to the Little League Field until an existing use permit is modified for a small parking lot adjacent to the Trail and Saddle Club. In August 1988, the parking lot was contested by several neighbors, resulting in specific use conditions imposed by the Monterey County Supervisors. One of the conditions states that no bicycles will be permitted on the de Dampierre addition to Garland Park, which is the property connecting the Garzas area with Robles del Rio.

Garland Park remains closed to bicycles

GARLAND PARK remains closed to all bicycle use even though the park board conceptually approved permitting mountain bikes on the 145-acre Cooper addition.

At their April 2 meeting, Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District Board also authorized Manager Gary Tate to develop a separate bike path that will parallel the existing River Trail and connect the Little League Field with the East Garzas and Los Helechos neighborhoods.

The Cooper Ranch addition will not be open to the public until the park district has an official use permit approved by the County of Monterey. The use permit application will include an archaeological inventory, biologic survey, and access management plan, as well as other reports pertaining to the public use of the property.

Drought affects wildlife too

Because the flashboards have gone up, a steelhead fish rescue is in process upstream in Carmel River. Upstream is where the fish that have managed to make it through these past few years survive until better days.

"We also won't know the impact on the steelhead gene pool until the fish come back up for the December run," Heuer added.

The unsuccessful attempt to use a fish ladder to attract steelhead in the bay indicate that most of the steelhead in the ocean have either gone elsewhere or have been eaten by predators. Whether the fish will return to its previous levels is unknown.

Beyond the river, the wild animals are maintaining, but the effect is beginning to show, said California Department of Fish & Game wildlife biologist Bruce Elliott.

"It certainly is having an impact on the old and infirm," he said. "We have also noticed there is very little survival from the two wild pig broods born (during the dry summer and early winter). This last brood born during the spring may have better survival rates because there was some rain."

The piglets born during the dry season are too weak to survive with little water and a reduction in food.

"The deer population appears to be, surprisingly, holding its own, but they are beginning to be stretched to the limit," Elliott said. "We'll won't really know until August when the does that are going into their final trimester during the dry portion of the summer months."

Does in weakened condition may spontaneously abort or deliver early and those fawns will not survive, he said. As the drought continues, leafy greens that most of the wildlife and deer survive on become more scarce, and the does become weaker.

The drought becomes more serious for anything that "hatches or is born late in the summer," Elliott said.

"Inland the situation is even worse," he added.

Elliott said Fish & Game is definitely receiving increased reports of animals coming into human settlements looking for water and food.

"There is lots of that. I have right now a report on my desk from a woman in Carmel Valley who has a buck eating her roses and she wants relief from that," he said.

There is not much people can do to stop the animals from seeking out any available foods.

"People move to these areas and build houses out with the wildlife, then lay out a delectable assortment of plants as an artificial food supply. The animals just do what comes naturally," he said. "I would advise people to enjoy the visits because when wild food becomes abundant again, the animals won't be coming around."

It is not advisable to leave food out for the animals because they can become dependent on the feedings.

"It's best just to let nature take its course," he said.

IN CARMEL, city forester Gary Kelly admitted that the city's trees are stressed.

"The large, mature trees get particularly stressed because they have greater water demands. The more foliage or needle area the greater the evapotranspiration. Also, a mature Monterey pine can grow 4 feet a year."

Recently planted trees are also under stress and require watering manually.

"It is a very labor-intensive process," he said.

The stress causes the trees to become more susceptible to disease and insects, especially the bark beetle which attacks Monterey pines.

"The trees don't have the sap they normally have. The sap is their defense mechanism," he said.

Tree owners should check their pines more often for signs of insect damage during this time, Kelly said, because the bark beetles can go year-round in these conditions.

The city has lost 25 mature pines on public property during the drought, he added, and he did not know how many private property trees have been lost.

The average person in the course of a lifetime walks a distance equivalent to almost three times around the equator.

Second reading of Phase III plan to be conducted by water board

By NANCY HILLS

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board will hold its second reading on changes to its Phase III rationing ordinance this Monday night.

The board will also receive the final draft of the allocation environmental impact report. After the report is received, along with a summary developed by the staff of the complicated document, the district will begin taking comments on the report. A final EIR will not be ready until this summer, but is expected to create some controversy.

The report discusses the environmental effects of different water consumption levels on the peninsula and how the water is distributed among the different jurisdictions within the district.

The water board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, April 23 in Monterey City Council Chambers.

Though the district will not increase rationing, changes are scheduled for the rationing ordinance that has been in effect since last year.

The changes include:

- Dropping the optional baseline businesses could choose for their rationing base instead of reducing their use by 20 percent.

The optional baseline is an "average" of the water used by types of businesses reduced by 20 percent. A committee formed by the board to investigate the effectiveness of the rationing program stated that it allowed too many businesses to use the same amount of water prior to rationing and that the numbers were inaccurate.

Businesses will now have to reduce their consumption by 20 percent or apply for a variance. A variance will be granted only if the business can prove it has taken every reasonable step to reduce water consumption, including retrofitting plumbing fixtures.

About one half of the peninsula businesses had applied for the optional baseline.

- Putting a maximum cap of residential meters. The board determined there were about 300 homes that used more than 800 gallons a day. The change to the ordinance would prohibit any residential meter from using more than approximately 873 gallons a day.

The ordinance also calls for stricter enforcement of water use offenders and the fine structure simplified.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year, including the following:

- Saturday, May 19, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

EARTH DAY. Nearly twenty years ago, twenty million Americans joined together on Earth Day in a spontaneous demonstration of concern for environment. Their collective action resulted in the creation of the Environmental Protection Agency and the passage of new law to protect our air, water, and land. Despite the efforts of the past twenty years, the health of the planet has continued to decline.

EARTH DAY 1990 is a local, regional and national attempt to draw attention to our environment and of the spaceship Earth.

Doggone good!

TWO LOCAL residents were honored by being asked to judge group competition at the recent Westminster Kennel Club dog show in New York, the top competitive event in dogdom.

Both are veterans of Westminster show judging, but it is a special honor to judge a group, the category beyond breed competition and just preceding "best in show." Dorothy Macdonald of Carmel Valley judged the sporting group and Dr. Jacklyn Hungerland, Monterey psychologist, judged the "toys."

Dorothy Macdonald is carrying on a family tradition, for her mother also raised dogs. Dorothy raises Brittanys, has her own house dogs, runs them in field trials (which she also judges) and has also shown them. She explained that to be a show judge you have to be licensed by the American Kennel Club. These licenses are reciprocal with England, Australia, and other countries.

"It's a great honor, and very enjoyable to be at Westminster," she said. "And it's amazing that there were two of us from the same area judging groups this year. We both belong to the Del Monte Kennel Club and our show — a prestigious one — is on May 12." Best-of-show judge will be Derek Rayne, in his 50th year of judging. That's a story in itself, for another column.

Dr. Jacklyn Hungerland's house pet in Corral de Tierra is a miniature poodle. She is an active psychologist with a full practice who has been judging dog shows for 31 years. This second career has included judging non-sporting dogs, toys, sight hounds, groups, best-in-show and also junior showmanship events around the country.

When do these busy women pursue their special interest? Well, don't try to contact them on or just before a weekend! When I talked to Dorothy Macdonald she was about to leave for Tennessee to judge a competition, and then to one in Washington, D.C. Dr. Hungerland is a member of the board of the American Kennel Club, which takes her on an additional journey to New York at least once a month. "Going to the dogs" takes on new meaning for these experts in our midst.

I THOUGHT I had reported fully last month about "Splendid Senior" Laurie Schumann. But with these modest persons, you never know. No sooner had the column appeared than I received several phone calls from people who wanted me to know what Laurie had not owned up to: she is also a concerned, helping neighbor.

Clayton and Linda Anderson were the first to call; what they told me brought the words "neighbor" and "friend" to life. "You should know how much she takes care of people in our neighborhood," Linda said. "She'll take food to a neighbor, transport someone to the hospital, take an elderly person out to lunch. You might say she 'cruises' the neighborhood, and when she sees a need, she takes care of it." Not that you would (or I did) hear about that from Laurie.

SPLENDID SENIOR

"I like to think of myself as a trouble-shooter, and I don't mind giving that extra few minutes to make sure the problem is solved."

That's how Betty Plank describes herself. It accounts for her successful 12 year-tenure as director of the Carmel Foundation, a time that saw substantial growth in every phase of the Foundation's activities.

It also accounts for Betty's willingness to share with all of us the details of a traumatic event in her life: she became a victim; she was mugged. "I want to talk about it so I might save someone else from that," she said.

To the more pleasant things first. With a background in personnel administration and social work, specializing in geriatrics, she came to the Carmel Foundation in September, 1974. At that time there was only an activities building, and only six classes. Diment Hall and the administration building were added later that year. Betty started the lunch program with seed money from Kiwanis — "with a volunteer cook and three pots." Soup was the staple offering. Eventually there would be 40 classes, including computer science. The development of a residential care facility was another major achievement of the Foundation's leadership during those years. Summarizing, Betty describes all this in personal terms: "Members of the Foundation are delightful, interesting, helpful people, many of whom are still my friends."

What brought about her retirement four years ago? Perhaps not surprisingly: "I was tired!" She added: "I was pushing 66, and I think people should quit while they still can enjoy life."

"Quit" is of course a relative term where Betty is concerned. She did take two special trips - to Italy, and around the United States. She enjoys being free to spend holidays with her two sons and two daughters. She became involved in several community activities. But two years ago, it was being mugged that gave her considerable energy a focus.

"I was one of three white-haired ladies mugged within three days, by the same man. It was in the parking lot of a store." (Specific details Betty prefers to keep to herself; the mugger was convicted and jailed but has since been released.) "One of the other victims was 80 years old. She wouldn't give up her

Veeder Ranch impacts similar to other valley projects

By DAVID LELAND

WHILE THE proposed Veeder Ranch subdivision may result in some adverse environmental consequences if constructed, those problems are no worse than those contained in seven other major projects planned for Carmel Valley, according to a draft EIR.

Prepared by Point Richmond-based LSA Associates, Inc., the EIR concentrates on how cumulative building could affect the valley and, also, how the ranch fits within the dictates of the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Veeder Ranch, owned by Chugach and Co., is located just southwest of Carmel Valley Village, situated immediately southwest of Garzas Road between the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club and the intersection of Garzas and Boronda roads.

The project applicant has two goals for the 83.3-acre parcel.

The first is to take 37.2 acres, almost 47 percent of the total area, and dedicate that to open space for forest preservation.

Secondly, the remaining almost 35 acres would be divided into 30 lots ranging in size from one to two acres. Two acres on the northwest corner of the project site, located in the floodplain would be designated for recreational purposes.

Each lot would be sold without a home constructed upon it.

The project site is part of a larger landholding also called Veeder Ranch, which was purchased in the late 1920s from Del Monte Properties Corp.

The entire 737-acre Veeder Ranch has been used solely as a residential property in the past and remains essentially in its natural condition, with no cattle or sheep grazing taking place.

About 657 acres of the original ranch have been sold, gifted or leased to the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District.

An administrative draft EIR was prepared in 1981 for a 30-lot subdivision similar to the proposed project, but the draft was never circulated.

Since 1981, the master plan has been revised, new traffic information has become available and water supplies have decreased. Thus, the necessity for a new EIR.

The current EIR is available for perusal at local libraries and at the Monterey County Planning Dept. in Salinas. Written comments, which are due by May 31, should be sent to P.O. Box 1208, Salinas, CA 93902.

provements be imposed on new development as a condition of building permit approvals.

Moreover, the EIR believes that the construction of the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway will mitigate traffic impacts on Highway 1.

The situation becomes worse if all of the above projects are approved in their entirety. At that point 2,613 residential units/lots, 33 inclusionary units, six farm labor units, 5,000 commercial uses and between 200 and 400 units of lodging would exist.

In that scenario, traffic levels would worsen, air quality would be degraded and open space loss would have "a substantial overall effect upon the rural character of Carmel Valley."

With respect to water, there is no safe way for any development until the current water supply expands, according to the EIR.

"Current water supply allocations for Carmel Valley are inadequate to sustain the growth permitted by the Carmel Valley Master Plan..." the EIR said, adding that development of the proposed new San Clemente Dam or an alternative water source would be required.

In addition, as residential use expands in the valley, an increase in the number of septic systems would increase the potential for groundwater contamination, according to the EIR.

"The Carmel Valley aquifer is the principal source of domestic water for the Monterey Peninsula; the contamination of this source could create public health problems on a local or regional scale," according to the EIR.

OTHER PROJECTS within the master plan in the EIR stage or approved include Carmel Greens, Carmel Valley Overview, Sierra Del Carmel, Rancho San Carlos, Holt Ranch and Carmel Valley Ranch Area.

If only Veeder Ranch and Carmel Valley Ranch, which has already received approval for 89 townhomes, were constructed, demands on commercial uses would increase, as would traffic congestion.

It is essential, the EIR suggests, to construct major road improvements on Carmel Valley Road. The master plan recommends payment of fees for major off-site im-purse, so the man threw her to the ground and kicked her. In my case, he came up behind me, pushed me up against a car, then grabbed my arm and spun me around. That stressed the ligaments and nerves in my arm, and it's still painful at times...

"He got my purse (adding insult to injury, it was a special one I had bought in Italy). I got a good look at him and at the getaway car. You never know what you will do in a case like that. I ran after him, screaming 'stop thief!' and was surprised when he kept running.

"The next day a third victim saw him clearly and got part of the license plate of the getaway car. The descriptions she and I gave led to his being caught, and jailed." Betty was the only one of the three to testify in court: "It was my first time; a very difficult business."

Because the thief had her identification papers, Betty decided to move, settling into an area that offers a good security system. Because she did not have her dog with her at the time, she now travels "almost 100 per cent of the time" with Kate, a Rhodesian ridgeback who can be friendly with people deserving her friendliness but "who is willing to defend me."

In typical Betty Plank fashion, this crime victim has turned her experience into something that can help others, especially seniors. She has advice: "Observe! What is going on around you, at all times, and if something like this happens, observe as much as you can about the criminal. Then you have to be willing to be a witness. This problem won't go away if we don't act."

Betty also took a course in "model mugging" offered in Monterey. "Sadly, it's a necessary course. There were some girls in the class as young as 14; some had been raped." She would like to see more seniors enrolling.

Inasmuch as she sees prevention as the best approach to solving this problem, Betty has become involved with the Alliance on Aging, especially its committee for the development of the "Seniors at Risk" program, and with the Area on Aging. That group has printed suggestions for preventing attacks; they can be posted at home, in businesses and other public places as a frequent reminder. Some of the suggestions, which Betty Plank follows scrupulously: don't travel or shop alone; never carry a purse into a store (use inside pockets and take a blank check and some ID cards with you instead); use stores that offer carry-out service. And always: be aware, stay alert, observe.

Betty admits that she felt like "a basket case" for some time after the mugging. It didn't stop her from being active and

What is Carmel 'character?'

EXAMPLES OF Carmel houses and what people feel are Carmel character continue to show a wide variety. On this page is primarily an eclectic selection, from the grapevine fence, simple cottage to the more stylized home at the left-hand bottom of the page. All these houses allow for a good deal of landscaping and settle almost naturally into the trees. Even the larger homes present broken-up roof lines and features than reduce the massive effect of the house. They all have one other thing in common. They are individual and personalized by their owners.

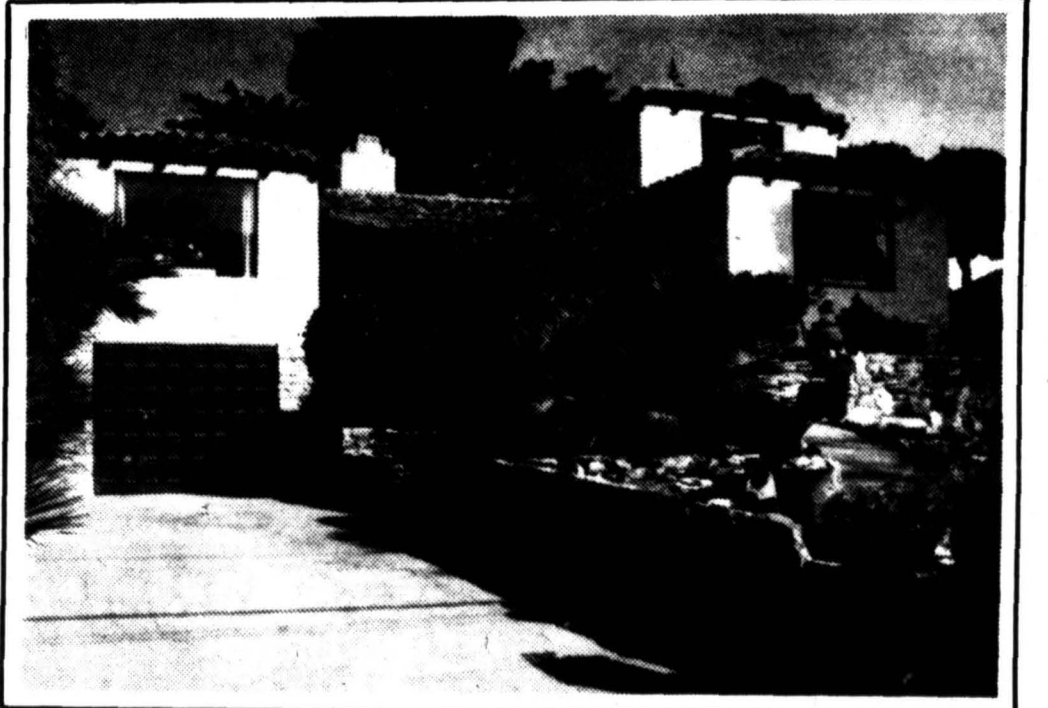

THIS IS a common style in Carmel and popular with those that have submitted samples of homes. The curved roof line, stucco exterior and bay windows are reminiscent of a fairytale forest cottage. These homes also have good landscaping and "looks as though it is in a forest" is a common statement about these homes. "Graceful roof line" or "varying roof line" is another observation.

ANOTHER VERSION of the fairytale style, with textured roofs, turrets and small-paned windows. Called the Tuck Box style, many of these type of houses were built by Hugh Comstock, who began building doll houses for his wife. This style is often copied by builders of today.

THE MEDITERRANEAN style and what is called "Monterey Colonial" (bottom photo), is common throughout the peninsula. Its simple, clean lines permit some breaking of the rules, such as the bottom photo which presents a massive front to the public but is still attractive. Both have good landscaping and front yard setbacks.

Center of culture

INCLUDED IN the map of Carmel-by-the-Sea, filed in 1903 by Frank Devendorf and Frank Powers, partners in the Carmel Development Co., was a section of 80 acres on the southeast added to the original Carmel city subdivision filed by Santiago J. Duckworth in 1888. This addition on a sheltered, southern slope became a center of Carmel culture and architecture.

This Sunday, April 22, Carmel Heritage is sponsoring a rare glimpse into the heart of the Eighty Acres, a home tour conducted by members of the Carmel Historical Survey. Sixteen houses will be on view with docents providing facts and illuminating, often amusing, bits of history connected with the properties scattered in the area that runs from Ocean Avenue to 11th Avenue and from Junipero to Forest Street.

The tour will be held from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. and will commence at the Forest Theater, where tickets may be purchased for $7.50. Sturdy walking shoes are recommended, and refreshments will be served at the theater during the afternoon.

Three residences of charm and character will be open to ticket-holders, including Mrs. Ann Borden's lovely house built by M.J. Murphy in 1922 for Dr. H.A. Spoehr of The Coastal Institute (founded by Andrew Carnegie). Bryce Tysver's English Tudor cottage, built by Hugh Comstock in the early '30s, will also be open as will the respectfully restored home and studio designed and built by artists George and Catherine Seideneck in 1920.

The early residents of the Eighty Acres were primarily romanticists, visionaries, who cared about art and culture, about their town and about each other. The rustic, wooded setting of the Forest Theater, founded by Herbert Heron in 1910, was perhaps the soul of these 80 acres, and many of the plays presented there earned national renown. Opposite the theater stands a peak-roofed cottage known as "The Press in the Forest." It was designed by J.W. Wright, a successful realtor in Southern California who moved up the coast determined to make his boyhood dreams come true. He built a chalk rock and redwood house, set up a printing press in one end of the long living room and began producing books — writing them, setting the type, using fine papers, and beautifully binding his work.

The Carmel "dreamers" were more than mere dilettantes. They worked hard. The peacefulness of the piney woods, the seductive shimmer of the sea, glistening at the bottom of the gracefully rolling land — was deeply meaningful to them. Creative endeavors didn't always pay the bills, and there were families to support, but the inspiring beauty and serenity of their chosen town nurtured the inner spark.

A camaraderie existed among these early Carmelites that showed the same character as their dwellings. Squabbles and colorful arguments arose from time to time, but essentially, they were for each other, and word spread quickly when a neighbor was in need.

A charismatic leader of that camaraderie was one of America's greatest poets, George Sterling, who discovered Carmel before the 1906 earthquake and encouraged his writer chums to join him in what he considered to be an artistic paradise. He built the U-shaped redwood house, known as "Sterling's Castle," with the help of friends, camping out in the pasture of his six-acre site until it was finished. It offered some of the most magnificent views of any of the houses in the Eighty Acres, looking into the glorious changing colors of the mountain ranges.

Writer James Hopper bought the house from Sterling about 1915. Jim Hopper Jr. recalls, "In 1923, when I was 13, we had lit a fire in the fireplace using driftwood from the beach. Then my mother and I went to the movies. We came home to find that the main part of the house had burned down. We learned that our good friend Bert Heron had tried desperately to save my father's books, which included first editions by George Sterling, Jack London and Leon Wilson. However, the Fire Department turned a hose on Heron and thwarted his efforts." Shortly after, the present house on the Sterling-Hopper land was designed by Ted Criley and built using Thermotite concrete blocks, a Carmel-made product which was fireproof.

THE RESIDENCE of Bryce Tysver will be open to ticketholders for the Eighty Acres Tour set for Sunday, April 22. The Tudor cottage was built by Hugh Comstock for Mr. Coote, a titled Englishman who chose not to use his title in Carmel, and was modeled after a home Mr. Coote owned in England. (Del Kaller photo.)

Jack London, spurred on by George Sterling's enthusiasm, was a frequent visitor to Carmel in the early days, and modeled characters after Sterling and Hopper in his novel, Valley of the Moon.

The Hoppers frequently entertained visiting literary luminaries and were known for their wonderful parties, featuring much dancing and spirited conversation. During one of these evenings, Sinclair Lewis arrived, bragging grandly of his cross-country drive in his new Ford motorcar. After the guests had heard more than enough, some of the men present nipped Lewis' boasts in the bud by simply removing the Ford to a nearby ravine.

Those who revere Carmel's rich heritage will find Sunday's "80 Acres Tour" a delightful and unique visit into the past, complete with fine draftsmanship, fascinating history, hilarious anecdotes and a good measure of old-fashioned Carmel camaraderie that, hopefully, will never go out of style.

Earthquake preparedness

WHAT CAN we do to prepare for an earthquake? There are several different ways to prepare for the quake, mentally as well as physically.

Mentally, we have to remember that we live in earthquake territory, and it is a matter of when, not if, the "big one" will strike the Monterey Peninsula. Knowing what to do and knowing that you are physically prepared will help your mental state when the earthquake occurs.

Physically, there are two areas of preparedness. The first is to make sure that your house is ready for an earthquake, and includes strapping water heaters, installing flexible gas lines, securing cabinets and large pieces of furniture, and having your foundation inspected and secured if necessary.

The second way to be physically prepared for an earthquake is to have enough emergency supplies for you and your family members to be self-sufficient for at least three days. Let's look at a well-stocked emergency storage closet:

SURVIVAL SUPPLIES

- WATER, one gallon per day per person
- FIRST AID KIT, freshly stocked
- FIRST AID BOOK, available at the American Red Cross
- FOOD, packaged, canned, or no-cook. (Don't forget baby food, special diet foods, and pet food!)
- CAN OPENER, non-electric.
- BLANKETS OR SLEEPING BAGS (Remember, electric blankets won't work!)
- PORTABLE RADIO with extra batteries.
- FLASHLIGHT with extra batteries.
- ESSENTIAL MEDICATIONS, SPARE EYEGLASSES
- FIRE EXTINGUISHER, 2A-10BC size recommended.
- MONEY

SANITATION SUPPLIES

- PLASTIC TRASH BAGS (large size)
- PLASTIC TRASH CANS
- SOAP (Bar soap, detergent, shampoo)
- TOOTHPASTE/TOOTHBRUSHES
- FEMININE AND INFANT SUPPLIES
- TOILET PAPER

RESOURCES

The Earthquake Preparedness Society is an organization in Southern California that was founded through the concern and collective ideas of off-duty emergency service personnel. They market several different kits which include household kits, auto packs (remember, the earthquake could strike when you are in your car away from all the emergency supplies you have at home!), emergency office kits, emergency school kits, and other supplies and information. While their emphasis is on Southern California their kits are valuable anywhere there is a need for emergency survival supplies. You can contact them at 8019 Orange Street, Downey, CA 90242.

The American Red Cross is an excellent source for first aid kits and for first aid training. Everyone should be trained to the level of Basic First Aid and Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation, and the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter offers regularly-scheduled classes in both. Contact them at 624-6921.

MPTV CABLE LAUNCHES DRIVE FOR HOSPICE

In conjunction with National Cable Month, MPTV will offer free standard installation of up to two cable outlets to new subscribers, or free installation of an additional outlet to existing cable subscribers who donate $15 or more to Hospice of The Central Coast. A standard installation is normally $44.95. The offer is available through April 30.

Hospice of the Central Coast provides a program of total care to patients with life-threatening illnesses and their families, through home services, a resource center and an inpatient facility in Carmel Valley.

"We hope to raise over $25,000 to support patient care services and to increase public awareness of the vital role of Hospice in our community," said Salvatore Balesteri, President of MPTV Cable.

Home Box Office, Inc. will donate an additional $5 for each HBO and Cinemax unit installed during April. Showtime Networks Inc. will do likewise for each installation of Showtime or The Movie Channel.

MPTV Cable's previous fund-raising drives in 1988 and 1989 together raised over $50,000 to support Meals on Wheels organizations of Salinas and The Monterey Peninsula.

SALVATION ARMY NEEDS USABLE FURNITURE

The Salvation Army Adult Rehabilitation Center needs usable furniture of all types. Requests for furniture items far exceed the supply on hand, according to Major Oliver Stenvick, center administrator. "We particularly need bedroom and dining room furniture, but upholstered pieces are also acceptable, but should be without tears or soil so that users could place it in their homes as is," Stenvick said.

Pick-up arrangements can be made by calling 1-800-336-4900, which is toll-free. The Salvation Army truck can usually provide next-day pick-up service.

Salvation Army Thrift Stores provide services to families in need, as well as provide funding for The Salvation Army's residential alcohol and drug treatment program. In 1989, 428 clients were provided free treatment for alcohol and/or drug dependency.

MONTEREY COUNTY PARKS DEPARTMENT RECEIVES STATE AWARDS

The Monterey County Parks Department received three awards at the California and Pacific Southwest Recreation and Parks Conference held in San Diego this month.

The Wildflower Festival at Lake San Antonio received the Recreation Program Certificate of Merit Award, and in addition, a Marketing Package Promotions Program Outstanding Award. The third award received by the department was the Honorable Mention Award for Special Facilities Brochure for the Monterey County Agricultural and Rural Life Museum brochure in the promotions division.

Awards were presented at the opening session of the conference. Awards were received by Pete Soderberg, director of parks; Terry Davis, marketing director; and Jim Spreng, supervising ranger.

"We were very proud to receive these awards," says Terry Davis. "This will be the second year in a row our department has received major statewide recognition in the Recreation Programming Awards Division. Last year, the Lake San Antonio Eagle Watch Program received the Award of Excellence in the state of California. We are hopeful we will be able to keep up this tradition in future years." There are more than 450 cities, counties, and special districts associated with the conference and a record 3,200 of delegates in attendance.

SUMMER FIRE SAFETY TIPS OFFERED

Sen. Henry J. Mello (D-Watsonville), announced that copies of the Home Fire Safety Guide are available at his four district offices located in Gilroy, Monterey, Salinas and Santa Cruz.

"The summer season is approaching and California is experiencing an unprecedented fourth year of drought. Our lakes and rivers are dangerously low, which hinders the State Department of Forestry's ability to fight fires during the dry season," Mello said.

"Ninety percent of our fires are caused by people — that means 90 percent of our fires are preventable. There are steps which can be taken to minimize the possibility of fires in and around your home. The Home Fire Safety Guide offers valuable tips on safeguarding lives and property from fire damage," continued Mello.

The brochure offers valuable information on topics including (1) how to protect your home when caught in a wildfire, (2) establishing a family escape plan, (3) basic landscape for home fire safety using fire resistant plants, (4) the need for smoke detectors, and (5) good housekeeping and yard maintenance procedures.

Free brochures can be obtained by calling Senator Mello's district offices at 373-0773 in Monterey.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

More than 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The longer one lives, the greater chance of being victimized by fake "cures." There still are people who promise the impossible with "miracle" drugs, diets or devices — like "Perkins Tractors." These short rods, colored gold and silver, were to be drawn over parts of the body "to release electricity." Inventor Ellsha Perkins touted them for use against pleurisy, rheumatism, yellow fever, gout, tumors and insanity. And people went for them. That was in 1798. Some fake "cures" can be dangerous. Some are harmless, but may interfere with recognized medical care which can really control symptoms.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Humor is spiced with truth

From Carmel Pine Cone
April 1, 1982

A few weeks ago in Taipei, Taiwan, I visited a large and modern TV and radio station managed by a young California priest, Father George Martinson.

The TV programs were written and produced for Taiwan viewing, but the radio station beamed a 24-hour-a-day news program for Red China, together with programs from Manila and Radio Vatican. The young Padre told us that he received much favorable feedback from the mainland and that as much as the Communists hated true and honest reporting, their greatest fear seemed to be the political joke and well-written satire.

It is true that all fanatics lack a sense of humor. In the Middle Ages, theologians used to say the most effective way to rout the Devil was to laugh at him.

Gilbert Keith Chesterton wrote a biography of St. Francis of Assisi and he contends that a sense of humor permeated every phase of the saint's life; and humor salts the lives of all the saints preserving them from dry rot.

Our American philosopher Henry Ward Beecher remarked that a man without humor is like a wagon without a spring. We get a heavy jolt every time we pass over a pebble.

Oh, Lord, may all those behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains continue to hear the truth spiced with humor. If they really see the absurdities of their theories, they will laugh themselves to death. Amen.

Bon temps rouler

FOR A great live music event in unique surroundings, set aside Saturday night: Queen Ida and the Bon Temps Zydeco Band will be performing their incendiary brand of zydeco as a benefit for The York School at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 21 at the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

Queen Ida — part of an extended zydeco family based in San Francisco that includes her son Myrick "Freeze" Guillory and brother Al Rapone (who both front their own zydeco bands) — has been nominated for four Grammy Awards, winning one for On Tour, but she is probably best known in these parts for lighting a fire under the traditional blues afternoons at the Monterey Jazz Festival.

Originally from Louisiana (Lake Charles to be specific), where this hot 'n' spicy party music was born, Queen Ida plays the instrument of choice for most zydeco band leaders — the button accordion. And if you haven't heard zydeco, you're in for a treat. It's a cross between the countryish Cajun (Acadian) music originated by the French settlers in Louisiana and the harder-edged blues sung by black slaves — joined together with Creole, calypso, bluegrass, polka and other ethnic seasonings into a heady gumbo brew.

As the band's name Bon Temps signifies, this is good time party-down music. If Queen Ida and her music can't get your feet dancing and your heart pumping, you may want to check into the nearest hospital to check for a pulse.

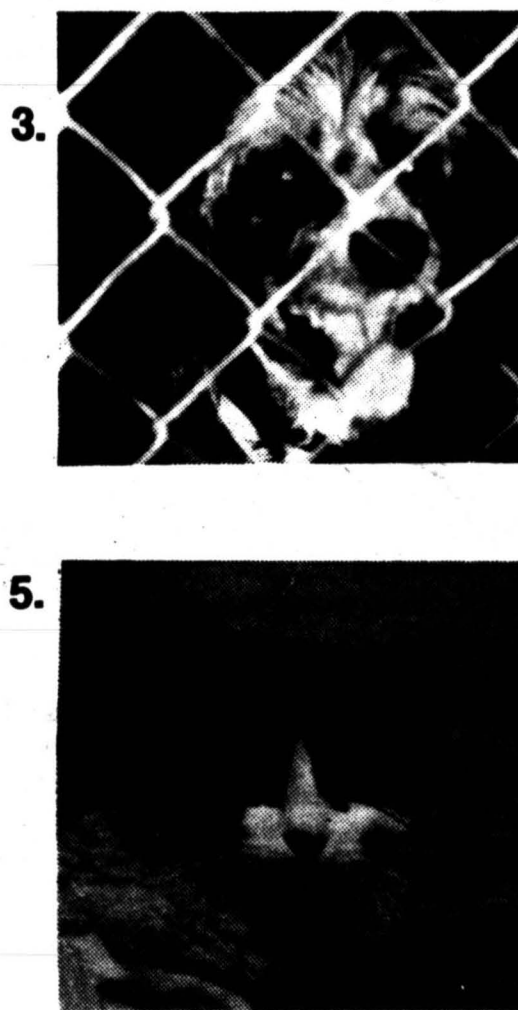

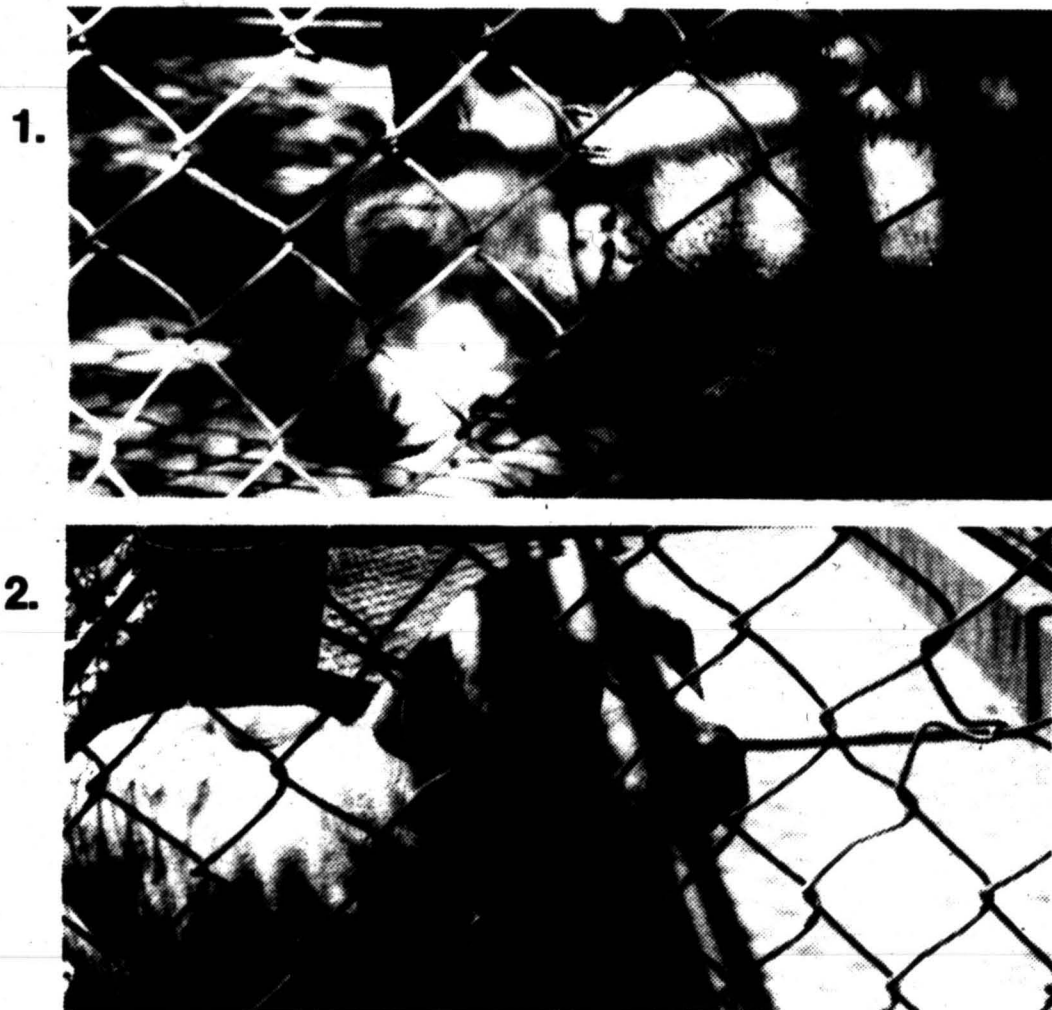

The most famous practitioner of this art was the late "King of Zydeco," Clifton Chenier, but lately, relatively new bands such as Buckwheat Zydeco, Rockin' Sidney, Zachary Richard, Jo-el Sonnier, Wayne Toups & Zydecajun, Beausoleil, and Terrance Simien & the Mallet Playboys, are bringing the sound to a wider audience.

By the way, "zydeco" is a corruption of the French word "les haricots," or snap beans, a popular dish in bayou country and the name of one of the first zydeco tunes.

Tickets for the event can be had by calling The York School at 372-7338 or 422-4299. York School Orchestra opens the show at 7:30, with Queen Ida slated for 8:30. Proceeds benefit The York School Scholarship Fund.

Seniors program needs participants

In September 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

In addition to these daily telephone "visitations," social events are also planned periodically as well as home visitations upon request.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

Harlem Boys Choir harmonizes at Sunset Theater

THE BOYS Choir of Harlem, founded in 1968 as a small group of choir members at Ephesus Church in central Harlem, will appear Tuesday, April 24 at Sunset Theater in Carmel. The 8 p.m. concert will offer a repertory ranging from classical music to contemporary songs, with special emphasis given the works of black musicians and composers.

The Boys Choir of Harlem has been received by audiences in concert halls, schools, and churches throughout the United States. It has performed at the White House, the United Nations, Avery Fisher Hall, Carnegie Hall and Radio City Music Hall.

Its numerous European tours have brought the group to the major musical centers of France, Holland, England, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Finland and Italy. In July 1986, the group performed at the official commemoration of the Statue of Liberty.

Recent performances included the New York Philharmonic at Avery Fisher Hall and the Apollo Theatre. In the 1988-89 season the choir appeared with the Los Angeles Philharmonic; toured France, Switzerland, and

Yugoslavia; traveled to Toronto as the only American choir invited to the International Choral Festival; and performed in Orchestra

Carmel. Admission to the 8 p.m. concert is $10 and $12.50. For information or reservations, call 624-3996 or 649-5561.

Hall in Chicago and Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. Future plans include a return visit to Japan.

Since its inception, the Boys Choir of Harlem has stressed not only the teaching and performance of music, but the preparation of its members for productive lives as well. A staff of fulltime counselors provides year-round career, family and adolescent guidance. As a result of its high standards, the Boys Choir of Harlem can boast of an excellent record of achievement. The choir began a program for girls in 1979.

In its efforts to provide a positive, creative alternative for inner city children in metropolitan New York, The Boys Choir of Harlem is both an artistic and a humanitarian institution. Even as the ensemble performs to critical acclaim, the training that the choir provides makes a significant difference in the lives of its members and community.

Tickets for Tuesday's performance are $12.50 and $10 and are available at Sunset Center or Center Stage Ticketing. For reservations or information, call 624-3996 or 649-5561.

Chamber Music Society tests young musicians

THE 19TH ANNUAL Carmel Chamber Music Competition will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 21. Winners of the competition will perform in the Winners' Concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 22. Both events will take place in Sunset

ARTS & LEISURE

Theater, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel, and are sponsored by the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Carmel Chamber Music Competition is national, with groups from the nation's foremost university music departments and conservatories entering the competition. Of these, ensembles with various combinations of instruments are selected to compete for the awards in the Saturday auditions.

There are two first awards of $2,500 each, one for strings, with or without keyboard or woodwind, and the other for woodwinds or brass. The second award is the $1,750 Florence Allen Award, and the third is the $1,250 W. Frederick Schaad Award. These awards are made possible by major gifts from the City of Carmel, the Monterey County Cultural Council, the National AT&T Pro-Am youth Fund, and support by members of the society.

Winning an award is difficult and demonstrates a high level of musical achievement. A two-tier judging procedure is used. Applicants must be under 26 years of age and submit a tape recording of two contrasting compositions. A screening committee of five outstanding local musicians uses these recordings to select those invited to compete before five distinguished judges. The winners who are announced at the end of the Saturday auditions, will perform at the Concert on Sunday.

Members of the screening committee judging the entrant's tapes were John Erickson, coordinator, a violinist and former member of the MPC music faculty; Margie Martin Dally, cellist with the Monterey Quartet and the Monterey Bay Symphony; Don Eshoff, was principal trumpeter with the Monterey County Symphony for 18 seasons and now holds this position with the Monterey Bay Symphony; Charles Fulkerson, pianist, former member of the Humboldt State University music faculty and conductor of the Humboldt Symphony for 30 years; Claire Horn, was principal oboist with the Saddleback Symphony, and a prominent music educator, lecturer, and conductor from southern California.

On Saturday the finalists will be judged by the following musicians:

Rosario Mazzeo, judge-coordinator, is a musician, educator, lecturer, author, inventor and executive. He retired to Carmel after a career with the Boston Symphony, administrator of the Tanglewood Music Festival for 32 years, and head of the Woodwind Department at the New England Conservatory. Mazzeo, inventor of the widely used Mazzeo Clarinet, has lectured at music schools from coast to coast, often on the subject of the clarinet's 288 years of life. He coaches chamber music groups, and is private consultant to many professional musicians.

George Barati, conductor, composer and cellist, is an honors graduate of the Royal Franz Liszt Conservatory of Music in Budapest. He has conducted more than 80 orchestras on four continents and is known to music lovers in the Monterey Bay region, having been the music director/conductor of the Santa Cruz County Symphony. Barati received the 1959 Naumburg Award for Composition for his Chamber Concerto. His compositions have been recorded on Decca, London, Columbia and other labels.

Carl Christensen, trombonist, is an instructor in music at Hartnell College and a recipient of numerous awards, the most recent the "Hartnell College Gleason Chair for Teaching Excellence 1989/90." He received his musical education at USC, earning a doctorate degree. Christensen was an instructor at the Mexico City Philharmonic Training Institution, and founder and conductor of the Student Orchestra of Mexico School of Fine Arts. He has played trombone with several orchestras, including the San Francisco Symphony.

Raul Herrera, pianist and harpsichordist, was born and raised in California, educated

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Festival finances

TICKET SALES for September's 33rd annual Monterey Jazz Festival already have hit $70,000. MJF honcho Jimmy Lyons says that total means "just about a doubling" of the rate at which fest ducats normally get gobbled up.

This financial factor was dropped in by Jimmy during a chat at his fairgrounds office. The talent lineup includes such stars as Dizzy Gillespie, Oscar Peterson, Stanley Turrentine, Joe Williams, John Lee Hooker, Ernestine Anderson, Poncho Sanchez, Tito Puente.

Jimmy said too that he has signed some of the artists who'll work the out-of-arena Night Club and/or Garden Stage: vocalists Margie Baker and Kitty Margolis, Donald Bailey Quintet, group fronted by saxist Virginia Mayhew and trumpeter Rebecca Franks, Paul Soderman Blues Band from Colorado, reedman Mel Martin's Bebop and Beyond.

"And," the general manager added, "we're getting together a bunch of our graduates (former MJF High School All-Stars) to play the Night Club. (Hot young tenorist) Don Paul McCaslin (out of Gary Burton's unit) will be the leader."

Meeting last week with a delegation from Nanao — Monterey's sister city in Japan — Jimmy gratefully accepted a donation of more than $16,000. The money was given, he said, to help this year's All-Stars meet travel costs for the annual Japan tour (8/7-23). The 1990 teens will play four cities rather than the two of recent history.

HILL NEWS: By the very fact of its continued creative existence, jazz battles global racism. Those who'd rather hate than love get nervous when the music wakes up hearts. Manipulators of commerce and public policy cannot rationalize away this wondrous stuff's discovery by former slaves.

When I was on Capitol Hill as an advocate for student aid programs, one casual practice saved many steps. House staffers use this big cafeteria in the Rayburn Building. I'd walk through several times, whistling Bird Parker tunes. Small smiles of recognition identified — instantly — the people who'd probably give a damn about ghetto kids. No joke. Bird cut through all the stylized chatter and self-conscious power games. (Leon Panetta has humanity smarts as well as legislative juice. Generally, that environment's most aware individuals work along hallways under The Hill. Delivering mail. Mopping floors.)

Congresswoman Cardiss Collins (Chicago Democrat) inspires the flashback. She's black and tough. And she knows that racist imagery represents the same soul-sickness that lets too many lawmakers support homelessness and urban hunger by ignoring them.

Cardiss Collins calls for a boycott of all Colgate products. Her point: let's protest Darkie. That's the best-selling toothpaste throughout Asia. A year ago, she says, the company promised to change the brand name and logo — a minstrel in high caricature. The alterations have not occurred.

Colgate execs claim that they hold only a half-interest in Darkie. The others (it's claimed) resist messing with "a successful product."

Yep. The same poison still damages jazz adepts of congenital coloration. Here's a tart assignment for any high school writing class: describe the link between Darkie Toothpaste and Miss Billie Holiday's fall into physical ruin.

EDUCATION'S in the local spotlight today. (For openers, check out the photo-and-caption accompanying this column. York School Scholarship Program will benefit from the appearance at Monterey Aquarium of Queen Ida and her Zydeco Band.)

— Monterey Jazz Festival's student-based jazz Pizazz Week continues on Thursday evening (4/19). The attractive freebie will feature in concert Monterey County Honors Band (high schoolers nominated by fest clinicians), elementary-level and middle school players, pro guest artist Bruce Forman on guitar. Place: Pacific Grove Middle School. Starts at seven o'clock.

KRML Jazz Radio (1410AM) assigned techies to tape the Wednesday night Pizazz concert at Monterey Peninsula College. An hour's worth of this musical activity will be broadcast on Saturday afternoon (4/21) beginning at three o'clock.

Monterey Jazz Festival's annual statewide student competition kicks off next weekend with a Friday evening concert at the fairgrounds (4/27). Playing will be the stone pros who judge youthful big bands and combos. Public invited at no cost. More on all this seven days hence.

— Boys Choir of Harlem will sing out at Sunset Theater on Tuesday evening (4/24). The program has been extremely useful in getting and keeping youngsters off the streets. Reservations: 624-3996.

— Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra invites public and private elementary schools to use its clinics. "Presentations highlighting the history and sounds of jazz through lecture and performance." Interested parties may contact vocalist Bill Allison at 372-5824.

— Stephane Grappelli said some wise things while the 82-year-old jazz violinist was in Emeryville for a run at Kimball's East. Example: "I try to play something new every time I play an old tune. Improvisation is a mystery I cannot explain. Either you got it or you don't. Classical musicians get bored just playing the notes that are written. The great fact about jazz is that you have the chance to invent something."

SIGHT BITES: Excellent pianist Larry Dunlap and singer spouse Bobbe Norris work the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club on Thursday night (4/19). Also: Mamou (4/20), Broadway Band (4/21), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (4/22), Gail Dobson with Rick Vandever (4/23), Jack and Ed Show (4/24), Rich Turnoy (4/25).

Vocalist Madeline Eastman has become a real favorite hereabouts. She'll be at the same venue (Thursday 4/26). Killer trio — Dick Hindman at the piano, bassist Seward McCain, Vince Lateano on drums.

•Superb saxist Jimmy Heath fronts a quartet at Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz on Monday evening (4/23). It's $12 per; eight o'clock kick; Center Stage Ticketing.

On Tuesday night (4/24) — Brazilian pianist and composer Egberto Gismonte plus backup quartet. At $13 per; 7:30 and 9:30 shows. Gig sponsored by Santa Cruz Brewing Co.

Down the road (Monday 4/30) — McCoy Tyner Trio with extraordinary bassist Avery Sharpe and drummer Aaron Scott.

Multiple dance classes set

Western dance classes are again offered by the Monterey Recreation Department.

Instructor Charlie Tonda says, "Partners are not necessary because the class is structured in such a way that everyone dances with everyone else. Students may also dance with one special partner if they prefer. All ages and levels of ability are welcome to participate." Dances taught include Two Step, Western Swing, Western Cha Cha, Western Waltz, Shuffle Dance, Polka, Line Dances, Jitterbug, Partner Perimeter Dances and many more. Teaching style is geared toward the average student with the emphasis on having fun.

There is also a club which students may join. Club activities include dances, parties, workshops and performances.

Classes in Monterey are offered Mondays at the Youth Center, 777 Pearl. Beginners meet 6:30-7:30 p.m. and intermediate/advanced meet 7:30-8:30 p.m. Cost is $20 per resident and $28 per non-resident for four classes.

JOYOUS SOUNDS — Grammy-winning Queen Ida and her Bon Temps Zydeco Band will perform on Saturday night (4/21) at Monterey Bay Aquarium. It's a benefit for York School Scholarship Fund. Robin Venuti serves the education outpost as community relations rep; call her at 372-7338 about reservations and ticket information. Queen Ida's magic has turned on crowds from Carnegie Hall to Dakar. York's traditional curriculum turns on college prep students — 43% of whom get financial help. Co-sponsoring the event: KRML Radio.

Friday and Saturday nights. Blues, jazz, World Music, other acts. Names have not been available at deadline; call for specifics.

Summer Art Festival puts out call for fine art entries

A CALL FOR artwork is extended by organizers of the first "Outdoor Summer Art Festival," to take place

Saturday, June 23 at Sunset Cultural Center in Carmel. The show is open to all Monterey Peninsula and Salinas area artists.

Chamber Music Society conducts annual competition in Carmel

at USC and UCLA. He was a scholarship performer at the Franz Schubert Institute at Baden bei Wien, Austria. He made his debut as solo harpsichordist with the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra in 1982 and debuted in New York the same year. He has toured widely as a community concerts performer and has concertized extensively in California, as well as in Switzerland, Austria, Holland and West Germany.

Clark Suttle, conductor and string bassist, has served with the Richmond (Virginia) Symphony, the Buffalo Philharmonic and the Phoenix Symphony prior to his appointment as music director and conductor of the Monterey County Symphony. Considered an accomplished double bass virtuoso by the age of 16, Suttle was given a full scholarship to the University of Michigan where he graduated in 1976 with a master's degree in conducting. Suttle received an Exxon Arts Endowment Fellowship, and won third prize in the Baltimore Symphony Conducting Competition. He also received the bronze medal in the International Concours Competition held in Geneva, Switzerland. In February, he was the guest conductor of the Savannah Symphony in Georgia.

The Chamber Music Society, through its national competition, wishes to encourage young musicians to pursue chamber music as a career. The annual competition and Winners' Concert is the highlight of the chamber music season.

Single tickets for non-members at the Sunday Winners' Concert are $5 at the door before the concert. The Saturday auditions are open to the public and free of charge.

The Chamber Music Society welcomes donations in support of its Carmel Competition. Memberships in the Chamber Music Society for the 1990/91 season are now available. For information call 625-2212.

Media represented will include:

- Watercolor;
- Oils;
- Serigraphs;
- Lithographs;
- Drawings;
- Collage;
- Photographs;
- Etching;
- Sculpture.

The Outdoor Summer Art Festival will provide a showcase for fine art and artists.

"Sunset Center has the Homecrafters' Marketplace in November, but a lot of artists do not apply to that because they want to be among artists, not craftspeople," explained Joan Vandervort, coordinator of the event.

Paintings and sculpture will be reviewed for selection by three members of the Carmel Art Association: Joe Tanous, Miguel Dominguez and Wilda Northrup. Roger Premier will review the submitted photographs.

The committee requests three pieces from each artist. Each painting is to have a three-by-five-inch card secured to the back with the artist's name, address and telephone number. Paintings are not to exceed 36-by-36-inches.

Sculpture is not to exceed 100 pounds. All pieces should also be labeled. Smaller pieces should be boxed.

Work may be taken to Sunset Center between May 1 and June 1. The center is on San Carlos Street at Ninth Avenue in Carmel-by-the-Sea. The work will be reviewed as quickly as possible and artists will be called to pick up their work. The committee may select up to 100 artists for the outdoor show. Because this is intended to be a showcase for "affordable art," individual prices are not to exceed $400.

The festival is open to both amateur and professional artists. A food concession stand will be open during the event, with proceeds to benefit the Friends of Sunset Center.

The first Outdoor Summer Art Festival will also feature a purchase award, best of show, people's choice award and ribbons for several categories.

Upon selection for the show, each artist will be assigned a space measuring 10 feet across and 15 feet deep. There will be a $20 entry fee to cover advertising, printings, mailings and ribbons.

For additional information, contact the coordinator, Joan Vandervort, at 659-5099.

Don't be you're too young to have a heart attack.

Last year 105,000 Americans under age 65 died of heart attacks.

In fact, 45 percent of all heart attacks happen to people younger than 65. If you're old enough to be concerned about heart disease, be wise enough to take the steps recommended by the American Heart Association to reduce your risk. Don't smoke. Reduce the fat and cholesterol in your diet. And control high blood pressure. Act now. Because it's never too early to start taking care of yourself.
